

WYATT'S STORE WILL BE MOVED

George C. Wyatt & Co. Purchases
North Half of Commercial Block
Consisting of 3 Rooms.

THEY PLAN TO REMODEL IT

Three Establishments Will Change
Locations as Result of Big
Real Estate Deal.

A real estate deal was consummated today that will change the location of several of Rushville's established business houses. Announcement was made that George C. Wyatt and Company had purchased the north half of the Commercial block from the heirs of the late William Helm and Lon Link.

The three rooms north of the stairway are included in the transaction. The deal has been pending for several weeks and was finally closed today. The Wyatt firm will remodel the three rooms, throwing them together and extending them in the rear.

In speaking of the improvement today, George C. Wyatt, senior member of the firm, stated that the work would commence just as soon as the necessary plans from the architect were completed and that he hoped to get in the new location at the earliest possible date.

The remodeling of the Commercial block and new location of the Wyatt store will mean that the paint and wall paper store of Edward Crosby and the plumbing establishment of Joe Lakin will have to be moved. Neither of these two firms have yet selected a location. The north room of the Commercial block has been vacant for some time. The extensive improvements as planned by the Wyatt firm will give them a modern furniture and undertaking establishment with plenty of room.

The sale of the Helm heirs' interest in the Commercial block is considered one of the largest real estate deals here in several years. No consideration was made public, but it is of importance from the fact that the new location for the Wyatt firm will be an addition to the business interests of the city, and from the fact that some of the oldest and established firms in the city are involved.

The firm of George C. Wyatt & Co. has been in the room now occupied by the store at 247 North Main street for over twenty years. The Crosby store has also been located in the Commercial block for a long time. According to the temporary plans of Mr. Wyatt, he will have a complete modern store and the face of the business district will be materially changed by the improvements.

SIMILAR CASE IS ON NOW

A. T. Sweetland, Chiropractor, is Being Tried at Connersville.

A trial for practicing medicine without a license, which is similar in every respect to the case of the state against William H. Monks, which ended here Saturday, is now being held in the Fayette circuit court at Connersville. The chiropractor on trial there is A. T. Sweetland and the affidavit arose from the same source as the ones filed here—the state board of medical examiners. The Connersville newspapers made mention of the verdict of the jury here, fining Mr. Monks $25.

MANY VISITORS ARE EXPECTED

Expressions Received From Men of
Surrounding Cities Indicate Big
Crowd Next Week.

FESTIVAL AND HORSE SHOW

Newcastle and Greensburg Will Send
Delegations—Decorations Are Going up Very Fast.

"Rushville is the best place to get a crowd and the best place to entertain a crowd after it gets there we ever saw."

This was an expression of several Newcastle men Monday, according to a number of Rushville men who were in Newcastle for a law suit. They said that Newcastle would be well represented at the fall festival and horse show here next week.

The same reports are coming from all surrounding cities and towns that means that Rushville may expect to entertain a big crowd next week. This year's festival and show will be far above any one ever attempted before. This is generally agreed by business men and townspeople as well.

Farmers are shifting their work around and making preparations to attend next week. Many Rushville people are preparing to entertain guests from surrounding cities—several of them from Indianapolis—during the week and in many cases it will seem more like a homecoming than anything else.

The decorations are being rapidly put up by H. W. Lewis, the professional decorator here from Atlantic City, and they have already become a great source of advertisement. One merchant reported today that six traveling salesmen visited him Monday and that every one mentioned the fact that surely something was going to happen here very soon.

The Rushville merchants asked the traveling men to tell people about it in other towns and cities they visited and other merchants have likewise been asked to make the same request of salesmen from out of the city who call on them.

Many of the downtown buildings were put in gala attire today. The Odd Fellow building will be decorated from top to bottom. It is on a prominent corner of the business district and will add materially to the decorations. As soon as the fronts are all decorated, the street decorations will be started.

The finance committee is scheduled to meet in Havens & Riggs' office over Mulno's clothing store tonight at eight o'clock and it is urged that every member of the committee be present.

The chairman and as many of the members of all other committees as possible are urged to be present because several propositions will come up for consideration. The music committee will have a report to make tonight regarding bands for the fall festival and it is the desire of the committee chairman to have a large representation.

The high class of the free attractions this year will add more than anything else, it is estimated, to the attractiveness of the program. People far and wide have heard about the daily flights by an aeroplane and nightly programs of fireworks. Those in charge believe the appearance of the airship will bring more people to Rushville than have been here in many years.

Concerning the crowd that may be expected from Decatur county, the Greensburg Review says:

The people of Decatur county are extended a special invitation to at-

SETS ASIDE THE JURY'S VERDICT

Judge Sparks Renders Judgment For
L. E. & W. in Case Where Widman Sought Damages.

JURY HELD INCONSISTENT

Answers to Interrogatories Not in Keeping With Verdict of $500
For Widman.

Before leaving for Richmond this morning where he is acting as special judge in an important case, Judge Sparks made an important finding in the case of Charles H. Widman against the Lake Erie and Western railway, sent here from Fayette county on a change of venue, when he sustained the defendant's motion for judgment on the interrogatories as answered by the jury when the case was originally submitted.

The finding of Judge Sparks on the motion of the defendant holds that the verdict of the jury in awarding $500 damages was not consistent with the answers to the interrogatories, and practically sets aside the award for damages.

The case was tried twice, the first time the jury disagreeing. The second trial of the case was held this term of court and the jury gave Widman $500 damages. His original demand was $5,000 for personal injuries received in a grade crossing accident in Connersville when his automobile was hit by a train on the L. E. & W. railroad.

At the time the verdict was returned it was mentioned that it was inconsistent with the answer to the interrogatories. The defendant in the suit, through its attorneys, John A. Tittsworth of his city and L. L. Broadus of Connersville, was preparing to file a motion for a new trial and take the case to the higher court.

The question involved and on which Judge Sparks based his decision was argued for over two hours one day last week. In giving the defendant railroad company judgment on the interrogatories, the verdict for $500 is set aside and now if the case is taken to the higher court it will be taken by Widman.

A total of thirty-five interrogatories were submitted to the jury for answer. The answers favored the defendant and the action of the court shows that the judgment for $500 was inconsistent with the answers. One of the answers stated that the jury found that the train was moving fifteen miles an hour when the auto was hit and another stated that the engineer of the train did everything within his power to stop the train and prevent the accident.

Judge Sparks was at the court house at five o'clock this morning and made the entry in the case. It was found by Clerk Taylor this morning when he opened the office. The time limit for filing a motion for a new trial expires tomorrow.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 19.—President Wilson added one to the vote for suffrage in New Jersey when he cast his ballot in the little fire house booth below the Princeton campus at one o'clock this afternoon. It was the first time in history that the executive of a world nation had taken his stand for the new and broader sphere of women. Yet the event was almost unnoticed.

ASQUITH'S ILLNESS GENUINE

Carson's Resignation Emphasizes
Troubles and Speedy Fall of
Cabinet May Result.

BY EDWARD L. KEENE.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

London, Oct. 19.—Can the Asquith cabinet last?

It was said today that there has been differences among the ministers concerning many of the gravest problems which have been up for some time. Sir Edward Carson's resignation as attorney general emphasized them so sharply that many looked for the whole administration speedily to fall.

Announcement was made today that Premier Asquith was so ill as to necessitate several days to recover. Of the genuineness of the premier's illness no doubt was felt.

It was recalled, however, that just such a previous announcement was the forerunner of Delcasse's resignation as foreign minister in France.

On one hand strong pressure was being brought to prevent wholesale resignation by the ministers as this would necessitate a national election and it was generally felt that the present is no time for such a test.

On the other side, the assertion was widely made that an increasingly vigorous prosecution of the war alone can prevent such a development, however inopportune the time may be.

TREATED TO INDIGNITIES

One U. S. Soldier Killed and Two
Dragged From Car and Shot,
One of Them Fatally.

(By United Press.)

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 19.—Sixty Mexicans, most of them dressed in the uniform of Carranza soldiers, wrecked and "shot up" a southbound passenger train near here on the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad last night, killing two Americans and wounding four others. They escaped after robbing the passengers and looting the baggage car.

The Mexicans afterward burned a 300-foot bridge and cut telephone wires between the scene and this place to delay pursuit. Five hundred soldiers and civilians are following their trail.

The dead are: Corporal McBee and P. H. Kendal, engineer.

The bandits removed the bolts and spikes from a rail. The train reached the scene about 10:30 last night. The rail was jerked from its place and the locomotive and two forward cars went into the ditch.

Before the passengers recovered from the shock, five Mexicans entered the first car still on the track and began shooting. Three United States soldiers near the door were the first victims. Corporal McBee was instantly killed. Privates McCain and Wallis were dragged out and shot. McCain was wounded in the abdomen and will die. Wallis was wounded in the left arm and his left hand shot away.

The Mexicans ran through the train shouting: "Death to the Gringos!" "Kill the soldiers." Passengers were told to hand over their valuables and were clubbed if they resisted. Several passengers were forced to remove their shoes and outer clothing. One swarthy bandit stopped and yanked the shoes from the bloody corpse of a soldier.

Mexican passengers were not molested.

MORE AMMUNITION NEEDED

(By United Press.)

Washington, Oct., 19.—Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican senate leader, today declared Republicans will support a preparedness policy. He said:

"Congress will adopt a navy program and provide a small increase in the army. It will provide more dreadnaughts, a larger number of submarines, swift cruisers above all. Moreover, we must provide an ample supply of ammunition for both the army and navy. The lack of ammunition has been little short of criminal."

Defeat of the government ship purchase bill was predicted by Smoot.

TAGGART CASE IS DISMISSED

Charge of Corrupting 1914 Elections
in Marion County is Nollid
Today.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Judge Says There Seems to be Several Other Cases in Which
Same Action is Needed.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—Thos. Taggart, Democratic national committeeman, will not stand trial on the charge of conspiring to corrupt the 1914 elections of Marion county. The case against him was dismissed today in criminal court on the motion of the state, for the reason that conclusive evidence against Taggart is lacking, said Prosecutor Rucker.

Taggart was indicted with Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Perrot and 125 others. Mayor Bell recently was acquitted by a jury.

Other cases continued by Special Judge Eichhorn until December 1 because the court is congested.

No action was taken in the case of James (Bud) Gibson and Ernest Roeder, confessed conspirators, their cases being continued.

When Rucker asked for a continuance in the other cases, Special Judge Eichhorn said:

"There seems to be several cases in which the same action as that just taken by the state should be taken and it seems wise to give the state time to look over its evidence before proceeding."

Mrs. Priscilla Clark, who died Monday afternoon at the home of her son, Frank Offutt, just east of Arlington, was a sister of Mrs. John K. Gowdy of this city. She also had a brother, Gabriel Gordon. The funeral will be held at the Gordon home Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by the Rev. E. S. Conner of Indianapolis. She was a member of the Christian church.

TODAY'S HOOSIER ODDITY.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—Few housewives in Indianapolis know that every foot of gas they use is scrubbed before they burn it. When the gas company discovered a quantity of naphthalene in the gas it installed a "scrubber" costing about $25,000 to wash the foreign substance out. Naphthalene is harmless and burns under ordinary conditions but when in cold weather the gas is chilled, naphthalene crystallizes, damaging the gas.

Signs of the Times

All signs point to very much better business this year than last year.

The effects of the war are understood and discounted.

Crops are bountiful. Buying is more in evidence.

Money for investment is plentiful.

While there is no sudden boom there is steady progress.

The advertising columns of this newspaper reflect this spirit.

They show the "push ahead" of merchant and manufacturer.

They show the names of those who deserve business by their willingness to work for it.

in the United States, remove them from their jobs in railroad offices, haberdashery stores, and business houses, send them all to Cambridge, Mass., and let them go daily to recitation rooms of Harvard to hear lectures on "How to be an Officer," and you've got the scene. Put them in American khaki and the picture is complete.

How do the town folks take it? It's deathly hard on them. They live, in peace times, on students. Now there are no students. In this way Oxford Cambridge, too, as well as all the other university towns of England—had hit harder than any other city on the little island.

Most of the town boys, have gone to the war. The town girls—well, out on the little River Cherwell, that winds through Oxford, you'll see them this afternoon three or four together drifting in a punt, knitting or sewing every one doing something for some soldier at the front. A few lucky ones have found young men, either convalescents from the Oxford war hospital, or youths from the officers' school and they sit about on the thick five-century-old turf, talking quietly or reading. You may be sure it is not about war. That theme is taboo.

Back at the four-hundred-year-old Mitre hotel, just before dinner, you say to the landlady, as you have been tipped by an Oxford man to say:

"Is it necessary to dress for dinner?"

"I'm sorry to say, it isn't," she says. "Before the war it was a custom never to permit any gentleman to go to dinner except in evening dress. But the war has changed it all. We can't insist on such things now."

But when you come down to dinner in an evening jacket just to please her, she comes up besides you and whispers.

"It was very kind of you. Thanks, so much."

The finest, greatest men in England for centuries back has dined in this old hotel, but not many of them have been thanked for dressing properly.

Upstairs, in the writing room, you see black-bordered stationery, in the racks on the writing tables.

"Has the landlady lost somebody in the war?" you ask the porter.

"No sir. That's for our guests."

The plague took thousands in London some centuries ago. Morning became public and national. There's another plague afoot in England today and again—this black-bordered stationery on the public writing table shows) national mourning is the order of the day.

Shift all you've seen at Oxford, this afternoon, to the university town nearest you. Then you can begin to understand what the war is doing to England.

NEW ERA FOLKS IN A CONFERENCE

Gather in Lafayette For Two Day

Session to Discuss Agricultural

Interests of State

MANY SPEECHES ON PROGRAM

County Agents And Officers of Farmers Institute Organizations

Are Present

(By United Press.)

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—The leaders of the commonly called "new era" in farming, the county agricultural agents and the officers of farmers' institute organizations, gathered here today for a two-day conference with the Extension staff of Purdue University, the former to tell their troubles and the latter to give advice. Practically every member of Indiana's large though recently recruited army of county agents was present.

The visitors were to hear a number of experts on farm subjects. Among the speakers were: Pres. H. J. Waters of Kansas Agricultural college; Dr. J. C. Whitten, University of Missouri; and L. H. Goddard, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Schedules will be arranged for farmers' institutes at tomorrow's meeting.

The addresses will be of special interest and profit to all who are engaged in agricultural pursuits. Men and women of other callings, especially bankers, tradesmen, journalists and teachers will find the program a very attractive one.

The conference was opened this afternoon, with an address on dairying by Dr. H. B. Favill, of Chicago, Vice-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association. Dr. Favill will present one or more important phases of the subject of dairying.

On Wednesday morning J. C. Whitten of the University of Missouri will speak on Horticulture. He is reputed to be a strong speaker.

On Wednesday afternoon Director Thorne of the Ohio Experiment Station will speak on soils. Mr. Thorne has appeared before Purdue audiences on several previous occasions and he will be warmly welcomed because of his special investigations on soils and crop fertilization.

Miss Gertrude McCheyne, formerly a member of the Extension staff of Purdue University but now engaged in extension work in the Utah Agricultural College, will address the conference Thursday morning on Home Economics. This lecture will be of special interest to women.

On Thursday afternoon President H. J. Waters of the Kansas Agricultural College will speak on Animal Husbandry. As an Agricultural investigator, teacher and public speaker, President Waters ranks among the best in this country. Many of those who were privileged to hear President Waters' splendid and very instructive address before the State Conference on Agriculture and Country Life held at Indianapolis in 1913, will be glad of the opportunity to hear him again.

The closing addresses of the conference will be delivered on Friday morning by L. H. Goddard of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and W. L. Elser of Purdue, Assistant State Leader, Farm Manager Demonstrations, on the comparatively new but very important subject of "Farm Management."

There will be evening addresses as follows:—

Tuesday—Boys and Girls School Clubs, Z. M. Smith of the Extension Department.

Wednesday—Farm and Home Sanitation, Dr. Hurty, Sec'y. Indiana State Board of Health.

Thursday—Indiana Centennial Director W. C. Woodward Farm and Home Beautification, C. B. Durham of Purdue.

These evening addresses will be illustrated with lantern slides.

The program will be enlivened with excellent music both vocal and instrumental.

A cordial invitation to attend this conference is extended by the University authorities to all persons interested in the advancement of agriculture and the up-building of rural life.

COLLEGE TOWNS HIT HARD

Most of the Town Boys Have Gone to War as Well—Colleges

Teaching Fighting Now.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Oxford, Eng., Sept. 13 (By Mail)—Transfer the scene here to Cambridge or New Haven or any other American university town and you would understand what war might do to the young men of America.

This is a golden autumn Sunday. The professors will dine in solitary state tonight in the vast halls. There'll be no songs of students. There are no students. They are nearly all at the front. In peace times the campus of each college would be thronged with undergraduates. Today, they are thronged with crippled men wearing the rough blue flannel suits soldiers wear in convalescent hospitals. They're not university men; either.

Take a watchmaker from Meridan, Conn., a bridge-painter from Brooklyn, a hog skinner from the stockyards, a railroad brakeman from the stockyards, a railroad brakeman from Minneapolis and a Frisco dock hand put them all on the campus under the elms of Yale, convalescing from war wounds, and you'll get the spirit of the scene at Oxford today.

Tomorrow the halls of the class rooms will be full of busy youths. But will not be reciting Greek and Latin. They will be learning lessons in fighting. Most of the colleges here have been turned over to the war department. Young men from all over England who had never expected to enjoy so fine a thing as going to Oxford find themselves sitting daily in the historic halls learning how to kill. They are to become commissioned officers.

WOODFORD CASSADY IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Dellia M. Casady Files Sensational Complaint, Alleging he Abandoned Her.

ASKS CHILDREN'S CUSTODY

Mrs. Dellia M. Cassady, through her attorneys, Young and Young, filed suit this afternoon for divorce from Woodford Casady, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment and failure to provide. The complaint states that they were married October 12, 1912 and separated on August 4, 1915 at which time he abandoned her. The complaint is sensational in the charges against Casady. He is employed as mail carrier on rural route one out of this city.

Mrs. Cassady alleges that he called her vile names and charges him with being intimate with Letha Snider of Connersville and Eva Perry of Terre Haute. She asks the custody of their two children, James and Dwight. Mrs. Cassady states that he makes $1,300 a year as a rural route carrier and asks for a reasonable amount for the support of the children.

THEY SAY A PEASANT GENERAL IS RULING THE RUSSIAN ARMY NOW

Real Inspiration of Latest Military Shake-up is Alexieff, is Authoritative Report.

ONE OF FEW HUMBLE LEADERS

By WILBUR S. FORREST.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
London, Sept. 14, (By Mail)—The real inspiration of the latest Russian military shake-up is General Alexieff—a peasant. This, too, in autocratic Russia.

Relegation of Grand Duke Nicholas to the Caucasus and substitution of the Czar as Commander-in-Chief can only mean, according to authentic military information, that the real Commander-in-Chief is Alexieff.

General Alexieff replaced General Russki a few months ago; he has now replaced Grand Duke Nicholas, and as Chief of Staff today is the most listened-to military man in Russia. The Czar will listen and the Czar's military moves can be put down as Alexieff's, declares gossip from London military experts.

The new Chief-of-Staff comes from peasant parentage and is one of the few Russian military leaders who made his debut into the world in humble circumstances. He was born in 1843. His mother was an Armenian, his father a Russian, and for many years estate manager for

A New Situation

Many of our readers have seen, no doubt, in the metropolitan newspapers, the daily syndicated articles on financial topics which are signed "Holland." These articles are authentic in every particular; and it is therefore, of interest to note this paragraph from one of "Holland's" latest letters:

"There is one curious, perhaps ominous, certainly highly suggestive item in the official report which tells of our foreign trade since September 1, of last year. In the year 1914 the money value of our imports was greater than the like value of imports of any other year. It almost reached the two billion dollar mark. There has been an almost cyclonic change in this respect in the past twelve months. The commodities which other nations sold to us in 1914 so greatly as to make a new record, were brought here through the operation of the new tariff law."

This brings us back to an important economic fact. Just now the tendency is to hurrah about our tremendous export business, caused by the war; and we are in danger of forgetting the tremendous flood of imports which we had before the war diminished them, which threw so many of our workmen out of employment, and which will come again when the war is over unless we do something to prevent it.

These import statistics of nearly two billions a year arose, as "Holland" says, "through operation of the new tariff law." They were checked, in part only, by the war. If they are not to be repeated, "the new tariff law" must be repealed and a protective tariff substituted for it. It is useless to expect the Democrats to make this substitution and if the "ominous item" is not to grow even more ominous a Republican Congress and a Republican President must be elected next year.

A New Disinfectant

As a result of experiments conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service it is announced that a new disinfectant, possessing qualities superior to ordinary disinfectants, has recently been discovered. The announcement is particularly important at this time, coming as it does in the face of the shortage in coal tar derivatives which has resulted from the European conflict.

The new preparation is derived from pine oil, a by-product in the manufacture of turpentine. It is easily prepared by mixing certain proportions of the oil with rosin and sodium hydroxide solution, the finished product being a reddish-brown liquid, rather thick and oily in appearance but free from turbidity. With water in it makes a perfectly white emulsion, much resembling milk. It has a pleasing odor, no objectionable taste and attacks neither fabrics nor metals. It possesses over four times the disinfectant properties of carbolic acid and is altogether nontoxic, so that it may safely be used as a throat spray or mouth wash in solutions of the ordinary strength. The cost of the preparation is remarkably low as it can be manufactured for less than fifty cents a gallon, solely from products which are produced in this country.

Many of the disinfectants now on the market are neither efficient nor economical, it having been demonstrated that a number of the most expensive and widely advertised are extremely weak in disinfecting power, so much so that their strength is undeterminable by ordinary methods. The sale of compounds of this nature constitutes a fraud. A second class of proprietary preparations are of guaranteed strength thus putting a legal responsibility upon the manufacturer, but the cost of these per unit of disinfecting power is frequently excessive. The household is therefore often at a loss to select a disinfectant which is efficient, economical and of constant strength and it is believed that this new compound which is to be known as "Hygienic Laboratory Pine-Oil Disinfectant," will become one of the most useful preparations of that character.

Unrest in The West (Pittsburgh Gazette-Times)

Travelers returning from the Far West and the Pacific coast report manifestations of discontent with conditions in that famed region of unrest. The dissatisfaction now is not so narrowly political as it was a few years back, although necessarily closely related to politics. The present complaint is that the Woodrow Wilson tariff has failed to produce results. The West is getting much the same dose it was compelled to swallow when the William L. Wilson tariff law was operative 20 years ago. Not even bountiful crops and the abnormal demand for horses and cattle created by the war have been sufficient to restore prosperity.

So there is a great deal of talk among big men agriculturalists and lumber people, not to mention small merchants and the real estate, of getting rid of the Democratic party next year. They say that, while manufacturers in the East and Middle West have been able largely to neutralize the general effects of the war and the adverse influences of a defective tariff system by supplying munitions and materials for the allies, the West has been standing still. And that is the one thing in all the world that no Westerner worth while is content to do. It is not to be disputed, meanwhile, that there is still a lively and considerable progressive sentiment in the West, but this appears to be centered less on individuals and the necessity of a third party than was the case in 1912. There is evident the admission that what is needful to be done next year can be accomplished through the instrumentality of the Republican party, if at all. The one overshadowing requirement of the situation is that the Democratic party shall be retired, as the West has paid heavy penalty for the outcome of the campaign of three years ago. Much progressive legislation has been achieved, and its efficiency is more or less stoutly defended, but it does not yield prosperity and it is material progress and sustained development that appeal to men of the West.

The opportunity presented to the Republican party is such as seldom occurs. If its counsellors are wise they will go in to retrieve rather than to seek reprisal or visit retribution.

HOOSIER HISTORY

CLAY'S RICHMOND SPEECH

Wayne county was one of the Whig strongholds in the state. The Quaker element was strong, and with the rise of the slavery question as a political issue, many of the Quakers became abolitionists, bringing bitter feeling between them and the Whigs. Henry Clay, candidate for the president, addressed a monster meeting in Richmond in October, 1844. Just before he began his speech a committee of abolitionists presented a petition to him concerning his freeing his own slaves. It angered Clay and for an hour he flayed the abolitionists with sarcasm and abuse, ending by telling them to go home and mind their own business. The speech was widely circulated among the abolitionists and was the cause of Clay's losing New York and the Presidency. After the election the abolition papers announced, "We are at home, Mr. Clay."

OPEN STYLE OF PLAY IS POPULAR

Indiana Teams Are Using Forward Pass This Season More Than Ever Before, it is Said

MAKES GAME INTERESTING

Notre Dame And Wabash Are Pioneers in This Class of Play, West Showed The East

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—That a new style of football is being served to the gridiron fans of the state this season is becoming more and more evident according to a number of dopesters today. It is believed that the state teams, both Conference and secondary, are using the open style of play more than ever before. This is in spite of the fact that exactly half of the Hoosier coaches are from eastern schools where the closed massed style of play is considered the ideal, or at least was until Western invaders trimmed a few of the eastern champions by use of forward pass, wide end runs, and punt formations.

The news that Indiana teams are coming more and more to take rank with such pioneers as Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Chicago in open field running is welcomed by the football public. The open style of play provides the thrillers that make the game interesting. Whether this will stimulate a practically stationary interest in the sport in this state is a question.

It is believed there has been more change in Purdue style of play than in that of the other schools. Confronted with but mediocre material Coach Smith has to a large degree parted from the close formations with few forward passes. This was seen in Saturday's game with Wisconsin. The game showed, however, that the Boilermakers have not yet mastered the forward pass.

In brilliancy and as a spectacular team it is thought Indiana ranks first among the state elevens. Last year while Indiana was learning the system of the new coach only straight football with the shift formations was used. Now that the fundamentals have been mastered Coach Childs has introduced the spectacular "L" shift and silent signals. The crimson has a repertoire of open plays of which only a few were used last week. A number will probably be sprung in the game here with Washington and Lee on October 30.

Notre Dame as well as Wabash may be classed with the pioneers in the use of open plays. Coach Harper of the Catholics in fact may be called one of the football missionaries to the conservative football pass route that the east was awakened to the fact that the west had something on them, footballically speaking.

De Pauw is using the open style more this year than ever before. Coach Young having transplanted some of the Washington and Jeff spectacular plays to the Methodist camp. Earlham, under Whitesides, a former pupil of the crafty Stagg of Chicago, promises it is believed to uncock some of the dashing stuff when they really engage in the race for the secondary title. Franklin staged some thrillers in the battle with De Pauw last Monday. Rose Poly's fast backfield also is fitted for open playing.

PRESIDENT GOES HOME TO VOTE

Citizen Wilson Today Casts Ballot in Favor of Women Suffrage in New Jersey

OTHER STATES INTERESTED

Amendment Provides They Will Get Ballot in 1916—Gave Impetus to Campaign

(By United Press.) Princeton, N. J., Oct. 19.—When Woodrow Wilson, New Jersey citizen legally residing in a small flat over a grocery store here gets off the Washington train and walks into the fire station around the corner to vote for statewide woman suffrage, he will hereby clinch the day's victory for the pros—at least, the pros say so. The antis say they're not so sure.

The nation, particularly those eastern states of it which soon will submit the question to their electorates, is watching New Jersey today.

The New Jersey Women's Suffrage Association. Opposed to Woman Suffrage, on the other after a campaign lasting years, rested their cases today.

New Jersey's decision, because of the President's action, is expected to have a marked effect upon suffrage votes in other states.

The Chief Executive will vote in response to the ballot's inquiry "Do you favor the enfranchisement of the women of New Jersey?" "Yes."

Mr. Wilson some weeks ago gave great impetus to the campaign in

New Jersey by declaring that he would vote for the amendment believing it would benefit the state. Presidential Secretary Tumulty both Jerseyman, who have declared for the proposition.

Should the women win today they cannot vote at the general election, as the official returns will not be canvassed until November 5, three days after the November balloting. But if they do win, the women will help New Jersey vote for a President of the United States, United States Senator and Governor, as well as many minor candidates for office in 1916.

NEGRO WAS NOT MUNCIE MURDERER

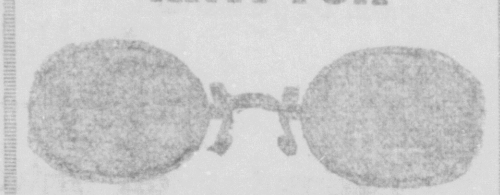

Chief of Police Rosencrance Given Another Clue But it Fails as Did First One.

DIDN'T ANSWER DESCRIPTION

Another report reaching the police department last night that the colored man, wanted in Muncie on a murder charge, was in this city, led to an investigation by Chief Rosencrance. He found that the man supposed to answer to the description of the murderer was at the C. H. & D. depot, but he gave a satisfactory explanation and was allowed to proceed to College Corner where he is employed.

The man gave his name as Walter Potter and stated that he is employed on a construction gang near College Corner. Chief Rosencrance stated that the man did not come close to answering the description sent out by the Muncie police department. He is the same man that a search was made for last week.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

TWO CARS OFF TRACK.

Traffic on the C. H. & D. was tied up several hours this morning until two cars that jumped the track at Irvington could be placed back on. It is understood that in switching in the yards there that two heavily loaded cars jumped the track. Train No. 35 due here at 5:40 a. m. was sent around by Greensburg and arrived here at 7:30 o'clock.

EXPLAINS THE $500 DONATION

L. O. Hamilton, President of the Columbia Club, Thinks Hearing is Due His Side.

MISLEADING STATEMENTS

Makes Point That Donation Was Given Not as Individual But as Head of Employers.

L. O. Hamilton, president of the Columbia Club and the Associated Employers of Indianapolis, who is well known here, has issued a statement explaining the donation of $500 to Theodore Porteus, Democratic candidate for the sheriff's nomination, in the primary of May, 1914. He makes the point that the donation was not made as an individual, but as president of the Associated Employers. His statement follows:

To the members, and friends of the Associated Employes of Indianapolis.

The newspapers, and some of the attorneys in the recent trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, have used my name so freely during the past few days and have made so many misleading statements in connection with same, that in justice to myself, and to the members of the Associated Employers whom I have had the honor to serve as their president for almost two years, I believe you should know and will be interested in knowing, the real facts in the case.

In the primary election in May 1914—a year before I was elected President of the Columbia Club) Theodore Porteus was running for nomination as Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. He was opposed on the same ticket by a man who did not seem to appeal to the best interests of the community. On the Republican ticket, George V. Coffin had no opposition as candidate for nomination as Sheriff.

Good citizenship at all times demands the nomination for public office, of none but clean men on all party tickets, so that regardless of which party wins, we may be assured of the election of capable men, who are strong enough to fearlessly and impartially discharge the sworn duties of their office. If good citizens do not do their full duty who will?

The foregoing explains why I personally undertook, at the request of a number of business men of both parties, to legitimately further the nomination—not the election—of Theodore Porteus on the Democratic ticket, by giving to Mr. Bell before the primary in 1914, the money which these same men had subscribed for the above purpose, and about which there has been raised in some direction, so much unjust and unnecessary "fuss."

The Columbia Club had nothing whatever to do with my action in this matter, because I was not elected President of the Columbia Club until almost a year later. Yet it has been made to appear that the Club was connected with the transaction. I say this in justice to the Club, and its members.

Mr. Porteus, you will remember, received the nomination for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket and Mr. Coffin was nominated for the same office on the Republican ticket. You know the result of the election in the following November—Sheriff Coffin led the entire Republican ticket, his plurality over Mr. Porteus being 6096. Personally, I at all times worked unceasingly for the nomination and election of Sheriff Coffin, and the whole Republican ticket.

You will also recall that the federated trades unions of Indianapolis issued a printed edict, addressed "To Organized Labor in Marion County," in which they sought the defeat of Sheriff Coffin and many other Republican candidates, and in which the statement was made that—for the Legislature alone, and several others on the county ticket. You cannot consistently vote for a man on the Republican ticket."

"There is not a union man for office on the Marion County Republican ticket; there is one on the Progressive ticket; there are four union men on the Democratic ticket

It was during the period of my personal activity in behalf of the nomination and election of all the Republican candidates that, with a sincere desire to see no end but good men nominated by either party and in the belief that such nominations were in the interests of the community, I consented to act as messenger for a number of business men, both Democrats and Republicans, in giving to Mr. Bell the money these men had subscribed to assist in the nomination—not the election—of Mr. Porteus, for the reasons above stated. And all this happened a year before I was elected President of the Columbia Club.

For the above innocent act, I have been harshly and unduly criticized. I then thought that I was doing the citizens of Marion county a good turn, and I am still of the same opinion. I have no excuses nor apologies to offer. What I did individually was prompted by clean, sincere motives. I only wanted to aid in the nomination of a good man. That was all that my associates desired.

Whenever I am in error, I am willing to be criticized, but in this case I am firmly convinced that I acted for the best interests of Marion county and all its good citizens. I simply acted as a business man. If business men generally would take greater interest in politics, and help secure the nomination of capable men for public office, it would redound to their credit, and to the credit of their county and state, in all of which I think you will agree with me.

Just a final word. I was born in Bracken county, Kentucky, which at that time, had approximately 2700 votes, about 2200 of whom were Democrats, and about 500 were Republicans. I was a Republican then, and I have been ever since. I have lived in Indiana for twenty-five years, and all my friends here know exactly where I stand when it comes to promoting the success of the political party of which I am a member.

Very Truly Yours,

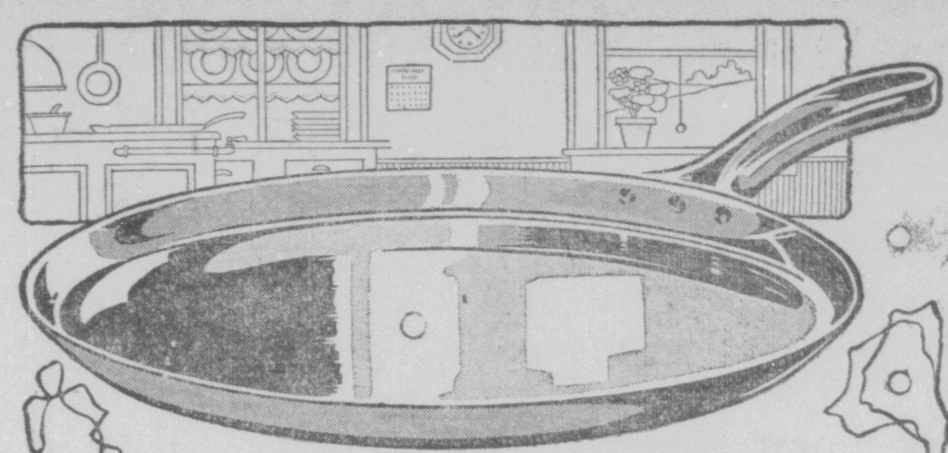

L. O. HAMILTON.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Storm Buggies that Will Keep You Warm, Look Nice and Wear Well. That's the Kind.

Everybody wants a nice storm buggy and I have one for everybody. Some of my competitors are going to quit selling buggies, or at least they advertise they are, and I am going to take their word for it, and just between ourselves, I have been looking for it for sometime, and I have reason for looking for it. Every year I sell more buggies than I did the year before and there is not much room left for competition. You naturally ask the question "How do you increase your buggy business all the time?" and the answer is that I give more buggy value for the money than anyone else, treat everybody alike and treat them right. I can prove I give more value for the money than my competitors as I am handling a storm buggy this winter, formally sold by one of my competitors, and I am selling it for $10.00 less than it ever sold for before, remember the same buggy for $10.00 less. Maybe you bought one last year and paid the extra $10.00. If you did, remember when you need a buggy look around. It has saved lots of vehicle buyers money to buy them of me, and I want you for a customer. The only way you can sell things right, is to buy them right, and not throwing any bouquets at myself, I sure buy right and I want to give you the advantage of good buying. Good buying, and a large volume of business make it possible for me to sell you a buggy from $10.00 to $15.00 cheaper than any one else. It is a simple proposition to figure out how it is done, and when you get ready to buy a buggy, buy where the majority buy, and save.

O'LEARY'S COW IS EXONERATED

National Safety First Association, However, Blames Mrs. O'Leary as Careless Creature

TO FIGHT AGAINST FIRES

Would Fasten Expense Upon Individuals For Those Caused Through Carelessness

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—No blame is attached to Mrs. O'Leary's cow for kicking over the lamp and starting the Chicago fire. The national Safety First association, in convention here today exonerated bossie and branded Mrs. O'Leary "the careless creature."

Match-chewing rats, babies that play with fire, boys who smoke cigarets in the woodshed and send up hot-air balloons with burning brands that fall on roofs and start big blazes—all irresponsible fire-starters extant, in fact, received clean bills from the convention.

Everything was blamed upon the grown-ups whose carelessness makes the starting of these fires possible. Each and every one of them is a major fiddling Nero at the burning of some Rome or other. Mrs. O'Leary was pointed to as not only a shining, but a blazing example of what not to do to prevent fires.

To bring their carelessness home to all the potential Neros and Mrs. O'Learys now extant and in course of development, the association planned a campaign for national and state legislation providing:

Designation of Oct. 9, every year, as National Fire Prevention Day; enactment of fire prevention laws and the appointment of fire marshals in all states and territories, obligatory fire-prevention instructions in all schools, the reconstruction of building codes to make all buildings as near fire-proof as possible, stringent regulation of the shipment, storage and display of fire-works and other inflammable and explosive material, also the fastening upon individuals of blame and expense for all fires caused by carelessness.

Mothers of This Country.

have through all ages past and will through all years to come take care of the ordinary simple ailments incident to every family with their own favorite remedy.

In almost every home in the land Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the recognized standard household remedy for female ills; thousands of American women owe their good health to it. Made from the roots and herbs of the field, it is a simple remedy in which suffering women may place perfect confidence. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

ORGANIZE TO MARKET PRODUCT

This is Advice of David Lubin, U. S. Delegate to International Institute of Agriculture

FARM OWNERS DECLINING

Statistics Show That This is Becoming Nation of Farm Tenants—Reasons Are Cited

Note—This is the first of 2 articles written for the Red Letter by David Lubin who, as U. S. Delegate to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, has devoted 11 years to the study of agricultural marketing and rural credit problems. The State Department has asked him to present to Congress this December his National Marketing Organization & Rural Credit Plan for the United States. Mr. Lubin outlines his plan in these articles. Tomorrow "The Unbreakable Farm Bank."

BY DAVID LUBIN
(U. S. Delegate, International Institute of Agriculture Rome)
(Written for United Press.)

New York Oct. -19.—If you farmers don't soon organize your national products distribution, organization under government charter, with co-operative state, county and township anti-bodies modeled after the General Landwirtschaftsrat, you are going down to financial ruin.

Cold government figures show that this nation of farm-owners is rapidly becoming a nation of farm-tenants. There are now tenants on 37 per cent of our farm land. That is because each farmer tries to borrow for himself and market for himself instead of doing it through an organization of the kind outlined, such as his operation in the countries of continental Europe.

You, the farmers have to plead and pray on bended knees for money to finance your crops. You pay big interests on short-time loans. If you happen not to be able to pay it back promptly, you are apt to be sold out. Then you become a tenant.

When you take your crop to market, you have to take the market price or leave it, even if you know it is less than your crop cost you to produce. Debts have been piling up for months. You must have money. You sell.

Next year it may be a little better, or a great deal worse. At best it is haphazard. What I cannot understand is why you submit to this state of affairs. You don't have to do it one instant longer than you chose to do it. Why not build up the proposed organization.

Rome died in the pomp and grandeur of her marble halls because she crushed the mud-house of the small land-owning farmer. She made his markets poor and his capital hard to get. The same thing is happening in the United States today. Therefore a real Market & Rural Credit plan is vital to the life of the Nation.

The Marketing Organization should be semi-officially governmental in nation, state, county and township. I mean that all the units should be organized under government charter. This gives it standing and prestige without the danger of its becoming a sinister political organization, or split into dozens of heterogeneous ineffective organizations.

There would be the National Commission of 29; 15 able representative farmers and 14 other men from various walks of life; a carrier, a financier, an ex-postmaster-general, etc. It would meet a few days twice or three times a year to draft necessary measures for the operation of the Working Bureau, composed of the Secretary General and his staff. This Bureau would work the year around.

In each state there would be a State Commission with its Working Bureau similarly organized and working the year around. Next there would be a county commission with a working bureau for each county in the country; and finally a Township Commission for every township with its working bureau.

These collective organizations would constitute the National Marketing Organization. They would be the farmer's chamber of commerce, board of trade, merchantile agency and clearance house, which now he does not have.

If a farmer at Rulo, Nebraska, had an idea for a new tomato-basket, he'd give it to the Township Bureau and it would, if practicable, go up through the organization and be adopted nationally.

The township units would keep the county, state and national bodies in hourly touch with exact conditions everywhere. The fruit I saw rotting on the ground in New England, "because there was no market for it," would not have been there if we'd had this Marketing Organization in operation.

In other words, every farmer in the United States, instead of looking at all his problems through no eyes but his own, would be looking at them, efficiently and intelligently, through the eyes of four or five millions of his fellow farmers.

STOMACH MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Your money back if you want it is the way in which Johnson's Drug Store the popular druggist is selling Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy.

This is an unusual plan, but Mi-o-na has so much merit and is so almost invariably successful in relieving all forms of indigestion that they run but little risk in selling under a guarantee of this kind.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. If it doesn't tell Johnson's Drug Store that you want your money back and they will cheerfully refund it.

A change for the better will be seen from the first few doses of Mi-o-na and its continued use will soon start you on the road to perfect digestion and enjoyment of food.

Mjona has been so uniformly successful that every box is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. What fairer proposition could be made.

Johnson's Drug Store give their personal guarantee of "money back if you want it" with every box of Mi-o-na that they sell. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

With Embargoes From Pro-
ducing Countries Blamed

The well known and much discussed high cost of living is a mere piker, compared to the high cost of getting sick these days. Even the slight cold that only requires a few doses of quinine is going to be a rather expensive proposition if quinine keeps on in its wild flight upward. This bitter and much used drug used to be so cheap that a dime's worth would suffice for quite a while, and there would always be three or four half used boxes lying around on the mantel shelf, next to the cherryjuice cough syrup and the spirits of camphor—always ready for an emergency. But quinine used to be worth about 50 cents per ounce, and now it is quoted in New York at $1.85 and $2.00 per ounce. The news of the phenomenal jump in quinine was contained in a quotation received today in this city. There has been a steady rise in the market quotation for the past several months, and the jump yesterday was from $1.12 to $1.85. As usual, the war is blamed for the advance in price, most of the quinine being manufactured in Germany and Holland from the bark, which is exported from South America and Java.

Local druggists say that, along with quinine, almost every drug used in prescription work has advanced in price until some are costing eight and ten times what they did a few months ago. For instance, you could have bought acetphenetidin, if you should have known what it was and have needed any in the course of your affairs, for about $1.50 an ounce, in June, 1914. Now it would cost you about $11. Benzoin acid was quoted in 1914 at 45 cents, wholesale, the figure, now is $4.50; salicylic acid has raised from 30 cents to $3, caffeine from 40 cents to $3, salol from 35 cents to $4.75, and so on. Of course, you don't buy any of these drugs for your every day use, yet they are used almost every day in compounding prescriptions. Glycerine has more than doubled in price. Even the cost of committing suicide via the carbolic acid route is getting to be almost prohibitive, as this deadly drug has advanced from 30 cents per pound to $2.

So if your druggist doesn't give you as many quinine capsules for a dime as you have been getting, or if he charges more for the prescription you have been having filled for years, you will know it is not because he is wanting to make more profit, but because the prices of the ingredients used in compounding it have soared sky high. The price advances are general, covering nearly all of the standard drugs, says the local pharmacists.

The unprecedented raise in prices is ascribed to the constantly augmented buying operations of Italy and other belligerent nations of Europe in the New York market, and to the embargoes placed upon shipments out of France and Great Britain. The glycerine raise is ascribed to the fact that it is in demand in Canada and the warring nations for use in making dynamite and explosives.

The outlook for a replenishment of the depleted supply with the 1915 botanical drug crops of Europe, Asia and Africa is darkened by the great scarcity of cultivators, gatherers and shippers, due to the war, and by the increasing number of embargoes placed upon shipments from the countries of production.

SWEET IS FINED ON ONE CHARGE

Appeals to Circuit Court When
Found Guilty of Not Having
Enough Light on Auto.

OTHER CHARGE DISMISSED

Owen Sweet was fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Bebout on the charge of operating his automobile without lights and was found not guilty of the other charge of failing to obey the law regarding driving to the right and left.

The action against Sweet was the result of a collision east of the city when his auto struck the buggy of Stephen Massey. It was brought out in the testimony that Sweet had his oil lights burning, but Mayor Bebout held that these did not show the light 200 feet ahead as provided by law. Sweet appealed the case to the circuit court, as his attorney maintained that the oil light was sufficient under the law.

WYATT'S STORE WILL BE MOVED

George C. Wyatt & Co. Purchases
North Half of Commercial Block
Consisting of 3 Rooms.

THEY PLAN TO REMODEL IT

Three Establishments Will Change
Locations as Result of Big
Real Estate Deal.

A real estate deal was consummated today that will change the location of several of Rushville's established business houses. Announcement was made that George C. Wyatt and Company had purchased the north half of the Commercial block from the heirs of the late William Helm and Lon Link.

The three rooms north of the stairway are included in the transaction. The deal has been pending for several weeks and was finally closed today. The Wyatt firm will remodel the three rooms, throwing them together and extending them in the rear.

In speaking of the improvement today, George C. Wyatt, senior member of the firm, stated that the work would commence just as soon as the necessary plans from the architect were completed and that he hoped to get in the new location at the earliest possible date.

The remodeling of the Commercial block and new location of the Wyatt store will mean that the paint and wall paper store of Edward Crosby and the plumbing establishment of Joe Lakin will have to be moved. Neither of these two firms have yet selected a location. The north room of the Commercial block has been vacant for some time. The extensive improvements as planned by the Wyatt firm will give them a modern furniture and undertaking establishment with plenty of room.

The sale of the Helm heirs' interest in the Commercial block is considered one of the largest real estate deals here in several years. No consideration was made public, but it is of importance from the fact that the new location for the Wyatt firm will be an addition to the business interests of the city, and from the fact that some of the oldest and established firms in the city are involved.

The firm of George C. Wyatt & Co. has been in the room now occupied by the store at 247 North Main street for over twenty years. The Crosby store has also been located in the Commercial block for a long time. According to the temporary plans of Mr. Wyatt, he will have a complete modern store and the face of the business district will be materially changed by the improvements.

SIMILAR CASE IS ON NOW

A. T. Sweetland, Chiropractor, is
Being Tried at Connersville.

A trial for practicing medicine without a license, which is similar in every respect to the case of the state against William H. Monks, which ended here Saturday, is now being held in the Fayette circuit court at Connersville. The chiropractor on trial there is A. T. Sweetland and the affidavit arose from the same source as the ones filed here—the state board of medical examiners. The Connersville newspapers made mention of the verdict of the jury here, fining Mr. Monks $25.

MANY VISITORS ARE EXPECTED

Expressions Received From Men of
Surrounding Cities Indicate Big
Crowd Next Week.

FESTIVAL AND HORSE SHOW

Newcastle and Greensburg Will Send
Delegations—Decorations Are Going up Very Fast.

"Rushville is the best place to get a crowd and the best place to entertain a crowd after it gets there we ever saw."

This was an expression of several Newcastle men Monday, according to a number of Rushville men who were in Newcastle for a law suit. They said that Newcastle would be well represented at the fall festival and horse show here next week.

The same reports are coming from all surrounding cities and towns that means that Rushville may expect to entertain a big crowd next week. This year's festival and show will be far above any one ever attempted before. This is generally agreed by business men and townspeople as well.

Farmers are shifting their work around and making preparations to attend next week. Many Rushville people are preparing to entertain guests from surrounding cities—several of them from Indianapolis—during the week and in many cases it will seem more like a homecoming than anything else.

The decorations are being rapidly put up by H. W. Lewis, the professional decorator here from Atlantic City, and they have already become a great source of advertisement. One merchant reported today that six traveling salesmen visited him Monday and that everyone mentioned the fact that surely something was going to happen here very soon.

The Rushville merchants asked the traveling men to tell people about it in other towns and cities they visited and other merchants have likewise been asked to make the same request of salesmen from out of the city who call on them.

Many of the downtown buildings were put in gala attire today. The Odd Fellow building will be decorated from top to bottom. It is on a prominent corner of the business district and will add materially to the decorations. As soon as the fronts are all decorated, the street decorations will be started.

The finance committee is scheduled to meet in Havens & Riggs' office over Mulno's clothing store tonight at eight o'clock and it is urged that every member of the committee be present.

The chairman and as many of the members of all other committees as possible are urged to be present because several propositions will come up for consideration. The music committee will have a report to make tonight regarding bands for the fall festival and it is the desire of the committee chairman to have a large representation.

The high class of the free attractions this year will add more than anything else, it is estimated, to the attractiveness of the program. People far and wide have heard about the daily flights by an airplane and nightly programs of fireworks. Those in charge believe the appearance of the airship will bring more people to Rushville than have been here in many years.

Concerning the crowd that may be expected from Decatur county, the Greensburg Review says:

"The people of Decatur county are extended a special invitation to all."

SETS ASIDE THE JURY'S VERDICT

Judge Sparks Renders Judgment For
L. E. & W. in Case Where Wid-
man Sought Damages.

JURY HELD INCONSISTENT

Answers to Interrogatories Not in Keeping With Verdict of $500
For Widman.

Before leaving for Richmond this morning where he is acting as special judge in an important case, Judge Sparks made an important finding in the case of Charles H. Widman against the Lake Erie and Western railway, sent here from Fayette county on a change of venue, when he sustained the defendant's motion for judgment on the interrogatories as answered by the jury when the case was originally submitted.

The finding of Judge Sparks on the motion of the defendant holds that the verdict of the jury in awarding $500 damages was not consistent with the answers to the interrogatories, and practically sets aside the award for damages.

The case was tried twice, the first time the jury disagreeing. The second trial of the case was held this term of court and the jury gave Widman $500 damages. His original demand was $5,000 for personal injuries received in a grade crossing accident in Connersville when his automobile was hit by a train on the L. E. & W. railroad.

At the time the verdict was returned it was mentioned that it was inconsistent with the answer to the interrogatories. The defendant in the suit, through its attorneys, John A. Tittsworth of his city and L. L. Broadus of Connersville, was preparing to file a motion for a new trial and take the case to the higher court.

The question involved and on which Judge Sparks based his decision was argued for over two hours one day last week. In giving the defendant railroad company judgment on the interrogatories, the verdict for $500 is set aside and now if the case is taken to the higher court it will be taken by Widman.

A total of thirty-five interrogatories were submitted to the jury for answer. The answers favored the defendant and the action of the court shows that the judgment for $500 was inconsistent with the answers. One of the answers, stated that the jury found that the train was moving fifteen miles an hour when the auto was hit and another stated that the engineer of the train did everything within his power to stop the train and prevent the accident.

Judge Sparks was at the court house at five o'clock this morning and made the entry in the case. It was found by Clerk Taylor this morning when he opened the office. The time limit for filing a motion for a new trial expires tomorrow.

ASQUITH'S ILLNESS GENUINE

Carson's Resignation Emphasizes
Troubles and Speedy Fall of Cabinet May Result.

(By United Press.)
London, Oct. 19.—Can the Asquith cabinet last?

It was said today that there has been differences among the ministers concerning many of the gravest problems which have been up for some time. Sir Edward Carson's resignation as attorney general emphasized them so sharply that many looked for the whole administration speedily to fall.

Announcement was made today that Premier Asquith was so ill as to necessitate several days to recover. Of the genuineness of the premier's illness no doubt was felt.

It was recalled, however, that just such a previous announcement was the forerunner of Delcasse's resignation as foreign minister in France.

On one hand strong pressure was being brought to prevent wholesale resignation by the ministers as this would necessitate a national election and it was generally felt that the present is no time for such a feat.

On the other side, the assertion was widely made that an increasingly vigorous prosecution of the war alone can prevent such a development, however inopportune the time may be.

TREATED TO INDIGNITIES

One U. S. Soldier Killed and Two
Dragged From Car and Shot,
One of Them Fatally.

(By United Press.)
Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 19.—

Sixty Mexicans, most of them dressed in the uniform of Carranza soldiers, wrecked and "shot up" a southbound passenger train near here on the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad last night, killing two Americans and wounding four others. They escaped after robbing the passengers and looting the baggage car.

The Mexicans afterward burned a 300-foot bridge and cut telephone wires between the scene and this place to delay pursuit. Five hundred soldiers and civilians are following their trail.

The dead are: Corporal McBee and P. H. Kendal, engineer.

The bandits removed the bolts and spikes from a rail. The train reached the scene about 10:30 last night. The rail was jerked from its place and the locomotive and two forward cars went into the ditch.

Before the passengers recovered from the shock, five Mexicans entered the first car still on the track and began shooting. Three United States soldiers near the door were the first victims. Corporal McBee was instantly killed. Privates McCain and Wallis were dragged out and shot. McCain was wounded in the abdomen and will die. Wallis was wounded in the left arm and his left hand shot away.

The Mexicans ran through the train shouting: "Death to the Gringos!" "Kill the soldiers." Passengers were told to hand over their valuables and were clubbed if they resisted. Several passengers were forced to remove their shoes and outer clothing. One swarthy bandit stopped and yanked the shoes from the bloody corpse of a soldier. Mexican passengers were not molested.

REPUBLICANS TO BE FOR PREPAREDNESS

Senate Leader Predicts That Congress Will Provide a Small Increase in the Army.

MORE AMMUNITION NEEDED

(By United Press.)
Washington, Oct. 19.—Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican senate leader, today declared Republicans will support a preparedness policy. He said:

"Congress will adopt a navy program and provide a small increase in the army. It will provide more dreadnaughts, a larger number of submarines, swift cruisers above all. Moreover, we must provide an ample supply of ammunition for both the army and navy. The lack of ammunition has been little short of criminal."

Defeat of the government ship purchase bill was predicted by Smoot.

The Orange school will have a social Friday evening, serving ice cream and oysters.

TAGGART CASE IS DISMISSED

Charge of Corrupting 1914 Elections
in Marion County Is Nulled
Today.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Judge Says There Seems to be Several Other Cases in Which
Same Action Is Needed.

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—Thos.

Taggart, Democratic national committeeman, will not stand trial on the charge of conspiring to corrupt the 1914 elections of Marion county. The case against him was dismissed today in criminal court on the motion of the state, for the reason that conclusive evidence against Taggart is lacking, said Prosecutor Rucker.

Taggart was indicted with Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Perrot and 125 others. Mayor Bell recently was acquitted by a jury.

Other cases continued by Special Judge Eichhorn until December 1 because the court is congested.

No action was taken in the case of James (Bud) Gibson and Ernest Roeder, confessed conspirators, their cases being continued.

When Rucker asked for a continuance in the other cases, Special Judge Eichhorn said:

"There seems to be several cases in which the same action as that just taken by the state should be taken and it seems wise to give the state time to look over its evidence before proceeding."

All signs point to very much better business this year than last year.
The effects of the war are understood and discounted.

The advertising columns of this newspaper reflect this spirit.
They show the "push ahead" of merchant and manufacturer.
They show you the names of those who deserve business by their willingness to work for it.

in the United States, remove them from their jobs on railroad, office, haberdashery stores, and business houses, send them all to Cambridge, Mass., and let them go to the celebration of the centennial of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Put them in American khaki and the picture is complete.

How do the town folks take it? It's deathly hard on them. They live, in peace times, on students. Now there are no students. In this way Oxford, Cambridge, too, as well as all the other university towns of England—had hit harder than any other city on the little island.

Most of the town boys, have gone to the war. The town girls—well, out on the little River Cherwell, that winds through Oxford, you'll see them: this afternoon three or four together drifting in a punt, knitting or sewing every one doing something for some soldier at the front. A few lucky ones have found young men, either convalescents from the Oxford war hospital, or youths from the officers' school and they sit about on the thick five-century-old turf, talking quietly or reading. You may be sure it is not about war. That theme is taboo.

Back at the four-hundred-year-old Mitre hotel, just before dinner, you say to the landlady, as you have been tipped by an Oxford man to say:

"Is it necessary to dress for dinner?"

"I'm sorry to say, it isn't," she says. "Before the war it was a custom never to permit any gentleman to go to dinner except in evening dress. But the war has changed it all. We can't insist on such things now."

But when you come down to dinner in an evening jacket just to please her, she comes up besides you and whispers.

"It was very kind of you. Thanks, so much."

The finest, greatest men in England for centuries back has dined in this old hotel, but not many of them have been thanked for dressing properly.

Upstairs, in the writing room, you see black-bordered stationery, in the racks on the writing tables.

"Has the landlady lost somebody in the war?" you ask the porter.

"No sir. That's for our guests."

The plague took thousands in London some centuries ago. Morning became public and national. There's another plague afoot in England today and again—this (black-bordered stationery on the public writing table shows) national mourning is the order of the day.

Shift all you've seen at Oxford, this afternoon, to the university town nearest you. Then you can begin to understand what the war is doing to England.

NEW ERA FOLKS IN A CONFERENCE

Gather in Lafayette For Two Day Session to Discuss Agricultural Interests of State

MANY SPEECHES ON PROGRAM

County Agents And Officers of Farmers Institute Organizations Are Present

(By United Press.)
Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—The leaders of the commonly called "new era" in farming, the county agricultural agents and the officers of farmers' institute organizations, gathered here today for a two-day conference with the Extension staff of Purdue University, the former to tell their troubles and the latter to give advice. Practically every member of Indiana's large though recently recruited army of country agents was present.

The visitors were to hear a number of experts on farm subjects. Among the speakers were: Pres. H. J. Waters of Kansas Agricultural college; Dr. J. C. Whitten, University of Missouri; and L. H. Goddard, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Schedules will be arranged for farmers' institutes at tomorrow's meeting.

The addresses will be of special interest and profit to all who are engaged in agricultural pursuits. Men and women of other callings, especially bankers, tradesmen, journalists and teachers will find the program a very attractive one.

The conference will be opened this afternoon, with an address on diarying, by Dr. H. B. Favill, of Chicago, Vice-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association. Dr. Favill will present one or more important phases of the subject of dairying.

On Wednesday morning Professor J. C. Whitten of the University of Missouri will speak on Horticulture. He is reputed to be a strong speaker.

On Wednesday afternoon Director Thorne of the Ohio Experiment Station will speak on soils. Mr. Thorne has appeared before Purdue audiences on several previous occasions and he will be warmly welcomed because of his special investigations on soils and crop fertilization.

Miss Gertrude McChesney, formerly a member of the Extension staff of Purdue University but now engaged in extension work in the Utah Agricultural College, will address the conference Thursday morning on Home Economics. This lecture will be of special interest to women.

On Thursday afternoon President H. J. Waters of the Kansas Agricultural College will speak on Animal Husbandry. As an Agricultural investigator, teacher and public speaker, President Waters ranks among the best in this country. Many of those who were privileged to hear President Waters' splendid and very instructive address before the State Conference on Agriculture and Country Life held at Indianapolis in 1913, will be glad of the opportunity to hear him again.

The closing addresses of the conference will be delivered on Friday morning by L. H. Goddard of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and W. L. Elser of Purdue, Assistant State Leader, Farm Manager Demonstrations, on the comparatively new but very important subject of "Farm Management."

There will be evening addresses as follows:—

Tuesday—Boys and Girls School Clubs, Z. M. Smith of the Extension Department.

Wednesday—Farm and Home Sanitation, Dr. Hurty, Sec'y. Indiana State Board of Health.

Thursday—Indiana Centennial Director W. C. Woodward Farm and Home Beautification, C. B. Durham of Purdue.

These evening addresses will be illustrated with lantern slides.

The program will be enlivened with excellent music both vocal and instrumental.

A cordial invitation to attend this conference is extended by the University authorities to all persons interested in the advancement of agriculture and the up-building of rural life.

STUDENTS ABOUT ALL AT THE FRONT

Average College Campus in England Thronged With Crippled Men Wearing Soldier Suits.

COLLEGE TOWNS HIT HARD

Most of the Town Boys Have Gone to War as Well—Colleges Teaching Fighting Now.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(U. T. Staff Correspondent.)
Oxford, Eng., Sept. 13 (By Mail)—Transfer the scene here to Cambridge or New Haven or any other American university town and you would understand what war might do to the young men of America.

This is a golden autumn Sunday. The professors will dine in solitary state tonight in the vast halls. There'll be no songs of students. There are no students. They are nearly all at the front. In peace times the campus of each college would be thronged with undergraduates. Today, they are thronged with crippled men wearing the rough blue flannel suits soldiers wear in convalescent hospitals. They're not university men, either.

Take a watchmaker from Meridan, Conn., a bridge painter from Brooklyn, a hog skinner from the stockyards, a railroad brakeman from the stockyards, a railroad brakeman from Minneapolis and a "Frisco dock hand put them all on the campus under the elms of Yale, convalescing from war wounds, and you'll get the spirit of the scene at Oxford today.

Tomorrow the halls of the class rooms will be full of busy youths. But will not be reciting Greek and Latin. They will be learning lessons in fighting. Most of the colleges here have been turned over to the war department. Young men from all over England who had never expected to enjoy so fine a thing as going to Oxford find themselves sitting daily in the historic halls learning how to kill. They are to become commissioned officers.

She asks the custody of their two children, James and Dwight. THEY SAY A PEASANT GENERAL IS RULING THE RUSSIAN ARMY NOW

Real Inspiration of Latest Military Shake-up is Alexeieff, is Authoritative Report.

ONE OF FEW HUMBLE LEADERS

By WILBUR S. FORREST.
(U. S. Staff Correspondent.)
London, Sept. 14. (By Mail)—The real inspiration of the latest Russian military shake-up is General Alexeieff—a peasant. This, too, in autocratic Russia.

Relegation of Grand Duke Nicholas to the Caucasus and substitution of the Czar as Commander-in-Chief can only mean, according to authentic military information, that the real Commander-in-Chief is Alexeieff.

General Alexeieff replaced General Russki a few months ago; he has now replaced Grand Duke Nicholas, and as Chief of Staff today is the most listened-to military man in Russia. The Czar will listen and the Czar's military moves can be put down as Alexeieff's, declares gossip from London military experts.

The new Chief-of-Staff comes from peasant parentage and is one of the few Russian military leaders who made his debut into the world in humble circumstances. He was born in 1843. His mother was an Armenian, his father a Russian, and for many years estate manager for

When King George and Queen Mary saw Billy shooting around the Royal Infirmary at Bristol in a wheeled-chair after being hit by part of a German shell on the deck of the Armenian during the submarine attack thereon June 28, they stopped him and asked about it, and he told them in his happy-go-lucky, guffawing, water-melon-smile way and he wore the grin for days thereafter.

A New Situation

Many of our readers have seen, no doubt, in the metropolitan newspapers, the daily syndicated articles on financial topics which are signed "Holland." These articles are authentic in every particular, and it is therefore of interest to note this paragraph from one of "Holland's" latest letters:

"There is one curious, perhaps ominous, certainly highly suggestive item in the official report which tells of our foreign trade since September 1. of last year. In the year 1914 the money value of our imports was greater than the like value of imports of any other year. It almost reached the two billion dollar mark. There has been an almost cyclonic change in this respect in the past twelve months. The commodities which other nations sold to us in 1914 so greatly as to make a new record, were brought here through the operation of the new tariff law."

This brings us back to an important economic fact. Just now the tendency is to hurrah about our tremendous export business, caused by the war, and we are in danger of forgetting the tremendous flood of imports which we had before the war diminished them, which threw so by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it has a tendency to close, and hearing will be impaired, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. many of our workmen out of employment, and which will come again when the war is over, unless we do something to prevent it.

These import statistics of nearly two billions a year arose, as "Holland" says, "through operation of the new tariff law." They were checked, in part only, by the war. If they are not to be repeated, "the new tariff law" must be repealed and a protective tariff substituted for it. It is useless to expect the Democrats to make this substitution and if the "ominous item" is not to grow even more ominous a Republican Congress and a Republican President must be elected next year.

A New Disinfectant

As a result of experiments conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service it is announced that a new disinfectant, possessing qualities superior to ordinary disinfectants, has recently been discovered. The announcement is particularly important at this time, coming as it does in the face of the shortage in coal tar derivatives which has resulted from the European conflict.

The new preparation is derived from pine oil, a by-product in the manufacture of turpentine. It is easily prepared by mixing certain proportions of the oil with rosin and sodium hydroxide solution, the finished product being a reddish-brown liquid, rather thick and oily in appearance but free from turbidity. With water in it makes a perfectly white emulsion, much resembling milk. It has a pleasing odor, no objectionable taste and attacks neither fabrics nor metals. It possesses over four times the disinfectant properties of carbolic acid and is altogether nontoxic, so that it may safely be used as a throat spray or mouth wash in solutions of the ordinary strength. The cost of the preparation is remarkably low as it can be manufactured for less than fifty cents a gallon, solely from products which are produced in this country.

Many of the disinfectants now on the market are neither efficient nor economical, it having been demonstrated that a number of the most expensive and widely advertised are extremely weak in disinfecting power, so much so that their strength is undeterminable by ordinary methods. The sale of compounds of this nature constitutes a fraud. A second class of proprietary preparations are of guaranteed strength thus putting a legal responsibility upon the manufacturer, but the cost of these per unit of disinfecting power is frequently excessive. The householder is therefore often at a loss to select a disinfectant which is efficient, economical and of constant strength and it is believed that this new compound which is to be known as "Hygienic Laboratory Pine-Oil Disinfectant," will become one of the most useful preparations of that character.

Unrest in The West

(Pittsburgh Gazette-Times)

Travelers returning from the Far West and the Pacific coast report manifestations of discontent with conditions in that famed region of unrest. The dissatisfaction now is not so narrowly political as it was a few years back, although necessarily closely related to politics. The present complaint is that the Woodrow Wilson tariff has failed to produce results. The West is getting much the same dose it was compelled to swallow when the William L. Wilson tariff law was operative 20 years ago. Not even bountiful crops and the abnormal demand for horses and cattle created by the war have been sufficient to restore prosperity.

So there is a great deal of talk among big men agriculturalists and lumber people, not to mention small merchants and the real estate, of getting rid of the Democratic party next year. They say that, while manufacturers in the East and Middle West have been able largely to neutralize the general effects of the war and the adverse influences of a defective tariff system by supplying munitions and materials for the allies, the West has been standing still. And that is the one thing in all the world that no Westerner worth while is content to do. It is not to be disputed, meanwhile, that there is still a lively and considerable progressive sentiment in the West, but this appears to be centered less on individuals and the necessity of a third party than was the case in 1912. There is evident the admission that what is needful to be done next year can be accomplished through the instrumentality of the Republican party, if at all. The one overshadowing requirement of the situation is that the Democratic party shall be retired, as the West has paid heavy penalty for the outcome of the campaign of three years ago. Much progressive legislation has been achieved, and its efficiency is more or less stoutly defended, but it does not yield prosperity and it is material progress and sustained development that appeal to men of the West.

The opportunity presented to the Republican party is such as seldom occurs. If its counselors are wise they will go in to retrieve rather than to seek reprisal or visit retribution.

HOOSIER HISTORY

CLAY'S RICHMOND SPEECH

Wayne county was one of the Whig strongholds in the state. The Quaker element was strong, and with the rise of the slavery question as a political issue, many of the Quakers became abolitionists, bringing bitter feeling between them and the Whigs. Henry Clay, candidate for the president, addressed a monster meeting in Richmond in October, 1844. Just before he began his speech a committee of abolitionists presented a petition to him concerning his freeing his own slaves. It angered Clay and for an hour he flayed the abolitionists with sarcasm and abuse, ending by telling them to go home and mind their own business. The speech was widely circulated among the abolitionists and was the cause of Clay's losing New York and the Presidency. After the election the abolition papers announced, "We are at home, Mr. Clay."

The Hot Blast Air Tight FLORENCE

The only absolute Smoke Consuming Stove on Earth. No Smoke, no Soot, no Dirt, no Clinkers—everything is consumed

Beware of imitations and the unscrupulous who claim to have a stove like or just as good as the Florence. Do not be deceived by such false claims and find it out when too late. A Florence will hold fire longer than any other stove manufactured. Examine the Florence carefully before you buy.

I will give $5000 to any stove manufacturer or dealer who will produce a soft coal stove outside the construction of the Florence that will burn all the ingredients of soft coal absolutely or will heat the same amount of space with the same amount of fuel as the Florence.

OPEN STYLE OF PLAY IS POPULAR

Indiana Teams Are Using Forward Pass This Season More Than Ever Before, It is Said

MAKES GAME INTERESTING

Notre Dame And Wabash Are Pioneers in This Class of Play, West Showed The East

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 19.—That a new style of football is being served to the gridiron fans of the state this season is becoming more and more evident according to a number of dopesters today. It is believed that the state teams, both Conference and secondary, are using the open style of play more than ever before. This is in spite of the fact that exactly half of the Hoosier coaches are from eastern schools where the closed, massed style of play is considered the ideal, or at least was until Western invaders trimmed a few of the eastern champions by use of forward pass, wide end runs, and punt formations.

The news that Indiana teams are coming more and more to take rank with such pioneers as Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Chicago in open field running is welcomed by the football public. The open style of play provides the thrillers that make the game interesting. Whether this will stimulate a practically stationary interest in the sport in this state is a question.

It is believed there has been more change in Purdue style of play than in that of the other schools. Confronted with but mediocre material Coach Smith has to a large degree parted from the close formations with few forward passes. This was seen in Saturday's game with Wisconsin. The game showed, however, that the Boilermakers have not yet mastered the forward pass.

In brilliancy and as a spectacular team it is thought Indiana ranks first among the state elevens. Last year while Indiana was learning the system of the new coach only straight football with the shift formations was used. Now that the fundamentals have been mastered Coach Childs has introduced the spectacular "L" shift and silent signals. The crimson has a repertoire of open plays of which only a few were used last week. A number will probably be sprung in the game here with Washington and Lee on October 30.

Notre Dame as well as Wabash may be classed with the pioneers in the use of open plays. Coach Harper of the Catholics in fact may be called one of the football missionaries to the conservative football pass route that the east was awakened to the fact that the west had something on them, footballically speaking.

De Pauw is using the open style more this year than ever before, Coach Young having transplanted some of the Washington and Jeff spectacular plays to the Methodist camp. Earlham, under Whitesides, a former pupil of the crafty Stagg of Chicago, promises it is believed to uncoil some of the dashing stuff when they really engage in the race for the secondary title. Franklin staged some thrillers in the battle with DePauw last Monday. Rose Poly's fast backfield also is fitted for open playing.

PRESIDENT GOES HOME TO VOTE

Citizen Wilson Today Casts Ballot in Favor of Women Suffrage in New Jersey

OTHER STATES INTERESTED

Amendment Provides They Will Get Ballot in 1916—Gave Impetus to Campaign

(By United Press.)
Princeton, N. J., Oct. 19.—When Woodrow Wilson, New Jersey citizen legally residing in a small flat over a grocery-store here gets off the Washington train and walks into the fire station around the corner to vote for statewide woman suffrage, he will hereby clinch the day's victory for the pros—at least, the pros say so. The antis say they're not so sure.

The nation, particularly those eastern states of it which soon will submit the question to their electorates, is watching New Jersey today. The New Jersey Women's Suffrage Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, on the other after a campaign lasting years, rested their cases today.

New Jersey's decision, because of the President's action, is expected to have a marked effect upon suffrage votes in other states.

The Chief Executive will vote in response to the ballot's inquiry "Do you favor the enfranchisement of the women of New Jersey?" "Yes."

Mr. Wilson some weeks ago gave great impetus to the campaign in

New Jersey by declaring that he would vote for the amendment believing it would benefit the state. Presidential Secretary Tumulty both Jersey men, who have declared for the proposition.

Should the women win today they cannot vote at the general election, as the official returns will not be canvassed until November 5, three days after the November balloting. But if they do win, the women will help New Jersey vote for a President of the United States, United States Senator and Governor, as well as many minor candidates for office in 1916.

NEGRO WAS NOT MUNCIE MURDERER

Chief of Police Rosencrance Given Another Clue But it Fails as Did First One.

DIDN'T ANSWER DESCRIPTION

Another report reaching the police department last night that the colored man, wanted in Muncie on a murder charge, was in this city, led to an investigation by Chief Rosencrance. He found that the man supposed to answer to the description of the murderer was at the C. H. & D. depot, but he gave a satisfactory explanation and was allowed to proceed to College Corner where he is employed.

The man gave his name as Walter Potter and stated that he is employed on a construction gang near College Corner. Chief Rosencrance stated that the man did not come close to answering the description sent out by the Muncie police department. He is the same man that a search was made for last week.

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

EXPLAINS THE $500 DONATION

L. O. Hamilton, President of the Columbia Club, Thinks Hearing is Due His Side.

MISLEADING STATEMENTS

Makes Point That Donation Was Given Not as Individual But as Head of Employers.

L. O. Hamilton, president of the Columbia Club and the Associated Employers of Indianapolis, who is well known here, has issued a statement explaining the donation of $500 to Theodore Porteus, Democratic candidate for the sheriff's nomination, in the primary of May, 1914. He makes the point that the donation was not made as an individual, but as president of the Associated Employers. His statement follows:

To the members, and friends of the Associated Employers of Indianapolis.

The newspapers, and some of the attorneys in the recent trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, have used my name so freely during the past few days and have made so many misleading statements in connection with same, that in justice to myself, and to the members of the Associated Employers whom I have had the honor to serve as their president for almost two years, I believe you should know and will be interested in knowing, the real facts in the case.

In the primary election in May 1914—(a year before I was elected President of the Columbia Club) Theodore Porteus was running for nomination as Sheriff on the Democratic ticket. He was opposed on the same ticket by a man who did not seem to appeal to the best interests of the community. On the Republican ticket, George V. Coffin had no opposition as candidate for nomination as Sheriff.

Good citizenship at all times demands the nomination for public office, of none but clean men on all party tickets, so that regardless of which party wins, we may be assured of the election of capable men, who are strong enough to fearlessly and impartially discharge the sworn duties of their office. If good citizens do not do their full duty who will?

The foregoing explains why I personally undertook, at the request of a number of business men of both parties, to legitimately further the nomination—(not the election)—of Theodore Porteus on the Democratic ticket, by giving to Mr. Bell before the primary in 1914, the money which these same men had subscribed for the above purpose, and about which there has been raised in some direction, so much unjust and unnecessary "fuss."

The Columbia Club had nothing whatever to do with my action in this matter, because I was not elected President of the Columbia Club until almost a year later. Yet it has been made to appear that the Club was connected with the transaction. I say this in justice to the Club, and its members.

Mr. Porteus, you will remember, received the nomination for Sheriff on the Democratic ticket and Mr. Coffin was nominated for the same office on the Republican ticket. You know the result of the election in the following November—Sheriff Coffin led the entire Republican ticket, his plurality over Mr. Porteus being 6096. Personally, I at all times worked unceasingly for the nomination and election of Sheriff Coffin, and the whole Republican ticket.

You will also recall that the federated trades unions of Indianapolis issued a printed edict, addressed "To Organized Labor in Marion County," in which they sought the defeat of Sheriff Coffin and many other Republican candidates, and in which the statement was made that—for the Legislature alone, and several others on the county ticket. You cannot consistently vote for a man on the Republican ticket."

It was during the period of my personal activity in behalf of the nomination and election of all the Republican candidates that, with a sincere desire to see no end but good men nominated by either party and in the belief that such nominations were in the interests of the community, I consented to act as messenger for a number of business men, both Democrats and Republicans, in giving to Mr. Bell the money these men had subscribed to assist in the nomination—(not the election)—of Mr. Porteus, for the reasons above stated. And all this happened a year before I was elected President of the Columbia Club.

For the above innocent act, I have been harshly and unduly criticized. I then thought that I was doing the citizens of Marion county a good turn, and I am still of the same opinion. I have no excuses nor apologies to offer. What I did individually was prompted by clean, sincere motives. I only wanted to aid in the nomination of a good man. That was all that my associates desired.

Whenever I am in error, I am willing to be criticized, but in this case I am firmly convinced that I acted for the best interests of Marion county and all its good citizens. I simply acted as a business man. If business men generally would take greater interest in politics, and help secure the nomination of capable men for public office, it would redound to their credit, and to the credit of their county and state, in all of which I think you will agree with me.

Just a final word. I was born in Bracken county, Kentucky, which at that time, had approximately 2700 votes, about 2200 of whom were Democrats, and about 500 were Republicans. I was a Republican then, and I have been ever since. I have lived in Indiana for twenty-five years, and all my friends here know exactly where I stand when it comes to promoting the success of the political party of which I am a member.

Very Truly Yours,
L. O. HAMILTON.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Storm Buggies that Will Keep You Warm, Look Nice and Wear Well. That's the Kind.

Everybody wants a nice storm buggy and I have one for everybody. Some of my competitors are going to quit selling buggies, or at least they advertise they are, and I am going to take their word for it, and just between ourselves, I have been looking for it for sometime, and I have reason for looking for it. Every year I sell more buggies than I did the year before and there is not much room left for competition. You naturally ask the question "How do you increase your buggy business all the time?" and the answer is that I give more buggy value for the money than anyone else, treat everybody alike and treat them right. I can prove I give more value for the money than my competitors as I am handling a storm buggy this winter, formerly sold by one of my competitors, and I am selling it for $10.00 less than it ever sold for before, remember the same buggy for $10.00 less. Maybe you bought one last year and paid the extra $10.00. If you did, remember when you need a buggy look around. It has saved lots of vehicle buyers money to buy them of me, and I want you, for a customer. The only way you can sell things right, is to buy them right, and not throwing any bouquets at myself, I sure buy right and I want to give you the advantage of good buying. Good buying, and a large volume of business make it possible for me to sell you a buggy from $10.00 to $15.00 cheaper than any one else. It is a simple proposition to figure out how it is done, and when you get ready to buy a buggy, buy where the majority buy, and save.

O'LEARY'S COW IS EXONERATED

National Safety First Association, However, Blames Mrs. O'Leary as Careless Creature

TO FIGHT AGAINST FIRES

Would Fasten Expense Upon Individuals For Those Caused Through Carelessness

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
 Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10.—No blame is attached to Mrs. O'Leary's cow for kicking over the lamp and starting the Chicago fire. The national Safety First association, in convention here today exonerated bossie and branded Mrs. O'Leary "the careless creature."

Match-chewing rats, babies that play with fire, boys who smoke cigarettes in the woodshed and send up hot-air balloons with burning brands that fall on roofs and start big blazes—all irresponsible fire-starters extant, in fact, received clean bills from the convention.

Everything was blamed upon the grown-ups whose carelessness makes the starting of these fires possible. Each and every one of them is a major fiddling Nero at the burning of some Rome or other. Mrs. O'Leary was pointed to as not only a shining, but a blazing example of what not to do to prevent fires.

To bring their carelessness home to all the potential Neros and Mrs. O'Learys now extant and in course of development, the association planned a campaign for national and state legislation providing:

Designation of Oct. 9, every year, as National Fire Prevention Day, enactment of fire prevention laws and the appointment of fire marshals in all states and territories, obligatory fire-prevention instructions in all schools, the reconstruction of building codes to make all buildings as near fire-proof as possible, stringent regulation of the shipment, storage and display of fire-works and other inflammable and explosive material, also the fastening upon individuals of blame and expense for all fires caused by carelessness.

Mothers of This Country.

have through all ages past and will through all years to come take care of the ordinary simple ailments incident to every family with their own favorite remedy.

In almost every home in the land Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the recognized standard household remedy for female ills; thousands of American women owe their good health to it. Made from the roots and herbs of the field, it is a simple remedy in which suffering women may place perfect confidence. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

ORGANIZE TO MARKET PRODUCT

This is Advice of David Lubin, U. S. Delegate to International Institute of Agriculture

FARM OWNERS DECLINING

Statistics Show That This is Becoming Nation of Farm Tenants—Reasons Are Cited

Note—This is the first of 2 articles written for the Red Letter by David Lubin who, as U. S. Delegate to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, has devoted 11 years to the study of agricultural marketing and rural credit problems. The State Department has asked him to present to Congress this December his National Marketing Organization & Rural Credit Plan for the United States. Mr. Lubin outlines his plan in these articles. Tomorrow "The Unbreakable Farm Bank."

BY DAVID LUBIN
 (U. S. Delegate, International Institute of Agriculture Rome)
 (Written for United Press.)

New York Oct. 10.—If you farmers don't soon organize your national products distribution, organization under government charter, with co-operative state, county and township anti-bodies modeled after the General Landwirtschaftsrat, you are going down to financial ruin.

Cold government figures show that this nation of farm-owners is rapidly becoming a nation of farm-tenants. There are now tenants on 37 per cent of our farm land. That is because each farmer tries to borrow for himself and market for himself instead of doing it through an organization of the kind outlined, such as his operation in the countries of continental Europe.

You, the farmers have to plead and pray on bended knees for money to finance your crops. You pay big interests on short-time loans. If you happen not to be able to pay, back promptly, you are apt to be sold out. Then you become a tenant.

When you take your crop to market, you have to take the market price or leave it, even if you know it is less than your crop cost you to produce. Debts have been piling up for months. You must have money. You sell.

Next year it may be a little better, or a great deal worse. At best it is haphazard. What I cannot understand is why you submit to this state of affairs. You don't have to do it one instant longer than you chose to do it. Why not build up the proposed organization.

Rome died in the pomp and grandeur of her marble halls because she crushed the mud-house of the small land-owning farmer. She made his markets poor and his capital hard to get. The same thing is happening in the United States today. Therefore a real Market & Rural Credit plan is vital to the life of the Nation.

The Marketing Organization should be semi-officially governmental in nation, state, county and township. I mean that all the units should be organized under government charter. This gives it standing and prestige without the danger of its becoming a sinister political organization, or split into dozens of heterogeneous ineffective organizations.

There would be the National Commission of 29; 15 able representative farmers and 14 other men from various walks of life; a carrier, a financier, an ex-postmaster-general, etc. It would meet a few days twice or three times a year to draft necessary measures for the operation of the Working Bureau, composed of the Secretary General and his staff. This Bureau would work the year around.

In each state there would be a State Commission with its Working Bureau similarly organized and working the year around. Next there would be a county commission with a working bureau for each county in the country, and finally a Township Commission for every township with its working bureau. These collective organizations the Marketing Organization. They would be the farmer's chamber of commerce, board of trade, merchant's agency and clearance house, which now he does not have.

If a farmer at Rulo, Nebraska, had an idea for a new tomato-basket, he'd give it to the Township Bureau and it would, if practicable, go up through the organization and be adopted nationally.

The township units would keep the county, state and national bodies in hourly touch with exact conditions everywhere. The fruit I saw rotting on the ground in New England, "because there was no market for it," would not have been there if we'd had this Marketing Organization in operation.

In other words, every farmer in the United States, instead of looking at all his problems through no eyes but his own, would be looking at them, efficiently and intelligently, through the eyes of four or five millions of his fellow farmers.

STOMACH MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Your money back if you want it is the way in which Johnson's Drug Store the popular druggist is selling Mi-o-na, the great dyspepsia remedy.

This is an unusual plan, but Mi-o-na has so much merit and is so almost invariably successful in relieving all forms of indigestion that they run but little risk in selling under a guarantee of this kind.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. If it doesn't tell Johnson's Drug Store that you want your money back and they will cheerfully refund it.

A change for the better will be seen from the first few doses of Mi-o-na and its continued use will soon start you on the road to perfect digestion and enjoyment of food.

Mi-o-na has been so uniformly successful that every box is sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. What fairer proposition could be made.

Johnson's Drug Store give their personal guarantee of "money back if you want it" with every box of Mi-o-na that they sell. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

DRUG PRICES SOAR SKYWARD

Quinine And Other Much Used
Drugs Show Unusual Advances
Local Druggists Declare

EUROPEAN SITUATION CAUSE

Heavy Buying of Belligerent Nations
With Embargoes From Pro-
ducing Countries Blamed

The well known and much discussed high cost of living is a mere piker, compared to the high cost of getting sick these days. Even the slight cold that only requires a few doses of quinine is going to be a rather expensive proposition if quinine keeps on in its wild flight upward. This bitter and much used drug used to be so cheap that a dime's worth would suffice for quite a while, and there would always be three or four half used boxes lying around on the mantel shelf, next to the cherryjuice cough syrup and the spirits of camphor, always ready for an emergency. But quinine used to be worth about 50 cents per ounce, and now it is quoted in New York at $1.85 and $2.00 per ounce. The news of the phenomenal jump in quinine was contained in a quotation received today in this city. There has been a steady rise in the market quotation for the past several months, and the jump yesterday was from $1.12 to $1.85. As usual, the war is blamed for the advance in price, most of the quinine being manufactured in Germany and Holland from the bark, which is exported from South America and Java.

Local druggists say that, along with quinine, almost every drug used in prescription work has advanced in price until some are costing eight and ten times what they did a few months ago. For instance, you could have bought acetphenetidin, if you should have known what it was and have needed any in the course of your affairs, for about $1.50 an ounce, in June, 1914. Now it would cost you about $11. Benzocaine acid was quoted in 1914 at 45 cents, wholesale, the figure, now is $4.50; salicylic acid has raised from 30 cents to $3, caffeine from 40 cents to $3, salol from 35 cents to $4.75, and so on. Of course, you don't buy any of these drugs for your every day use, yet they are used almost every day in compounding prescriptions. Glycerine has more than doubled in price. Even the cost of committing suicide via the carbolic acid route is getting to be almost prohibitive, as this deadly drug has advanced from 30 cents per pound to $2.

So if your druggist doesn't give you as many quinine capsules for a dime as you have been getting, or if he charges more for the prescription you have been having filled for years, you will know it is not because he is wanting to make more profit, but because the prices of the ingredients used in compounding it have soared sky high. The price advances are general, covering nearly all of the standard drugs, says the local pharmacists.

The unprecedented raise in prices is ascribed to the constantly augmented buying operations of Italy and other belligerent nations of Europe in the New York market, and to the embargoes placed upon shipments out of France and Great Britain. The glycerine raise is ascribed to the fact that it is in demand in Canada and the warring nations for use in making dynamite and explosives.

The outlook for a replenishment of the depleted supply with the 1915 botanical drug crops of Europe, Asia and Africa is darkened by the great scarcity of cultivators, gatherers and shippers, due to the war, and by the increasing number of embargoes placed upon shipments from the countries of production.

Skin Sufferers—Read!

We want all skin sufferers who have suffered for many years the torments of disease and who have sought medical aid in vain, to read this.

We, as old established druggists of this community, wish to recommend to you a product that has given many relief and may mean the end of your agony. The product is a mild, simple wash, not a potent medicine concocted of various worthless drugs, but a scientific compound made of well known antiseptic ingredients. It is made in the D.D.D. Laboratories of Chicago and is called the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

The effect of D. D. D. is to soothe instantly, as soon as applied; then it penetrates the pores, destroys and throws off all disease germs and leaves the skin clean and healthy.

We are so confident of the marvelous power of D. D. D. that we have taken advantage of the manufacturers guarantee, to offer you a full-size bottle on trial. You are to judge the merits of the remedy in your own particular case. If it doesn't help you, it costs you nothing.

D. D. D. Soap is made of the same healing ingredients. Ask us about it.

SWEET IS FINED ON ONE CHARGE

Appeals to Circuit Court When
Found Guilty of Not Having
Enough Light on Auto.

OTHER CHARGE DISMISSED

Owen Sweet was fined five dollars and costs by Mayor Bebout on the charge of operating his automobile without lights and was found not guilty of the other charge of failing to obey the law regarding driving to the right and left.

The action against Sweet was the result of a collision east of the city when his auto struck the buggy of Stephen Massey. It was brought out in the testimony that Sweet had his oil lights burning, but Mayor Bebout held that these did not show the light 200 feet ahead as provided by law. Sweet appealed the case to the circuit court, as his attorney maintained that the oil light was sufficient under the law.
